

MUSEUMAX, the Flipped AI Classroom in Museums

According to Zhihu, more than 1 billion visitors visited museums in China in 2018, and visitors under 40 takes more than 93% and 71% of those under 30. The youngsters has become the majority of the museum game players, but they are encountered with the challenge that the traditional museum education has been boring, even if with AR or VR, it remains one-way output mode, which results in the visitors' passively listening instead of actively exploring. Due to the inequity in educational backgrounds, economics conditions or geographical distances, museums are not easily accessible for those minorities or the underrepresented.

(Figure 2 age distribution of museum visitors)

(Figure 1 challenges encountered with youngsters)

Empowered with AI technologies, such as Google Lense, Google Maps, GPT-4, Dall E-3, MUSEUMAX enables educators (museums, teachers, parents) to customize personalized visiting plans for learners (tourists, students, children). Learners actively seek out cultural artifacts through gamified activities such as quizzes, check-ins and creative tasks. They strive to excel in these challenges and become protagonists of their own adventure stories and masters of the flipped museum classroom. In addition to deeper education, they could also share their museum fashion with their circle of peers, thus promoting the preservation of the world cultural heritage.

(Figure 3 Technical architecture design)

As an APP, MUSEUMAX allows you to visit the Acropolis or the Forbidden City,

(Figure 4 User interface of Museumax)

regardless of your location or prior knowledge. Any museum education center that employs MUSEUMAX can customize more in-depth educational plans for all visitors, thus increasing engagement and reputation. Schools can use MUSEUMAX as a supplementary software for general education, helping teachers design lessons and assignments easily, and students will no longer find it dull in learning history and culture. Join MUSEUMAX in the flipped museum journey!

Reference: <https://zhuanlan.zhihu.com/p/101918991>